NEW YORKER CATGHES AN HEIRESS

And a Salisbury, Connecticut, Hostler Wins a Hotel Keeper's Daughter. All the Parties are Youthful-A Dry Goods Clerk who got a Meagre Salary May now Hustle to Support a Bride Reared in Luxury.

New York, Sept. 27 .- The father of Miss Lin Campbell, of No. 259 Hoyt street, Brooklyn, is in a state of mind. He got a letter from Ida yesterday, coolly stating that she had eloped. She didn't say with whom, but Mr. Campbell very easily conjectured. Loton Gude, a Fulton street dry goods clerk, has been keeping company with Ida for a year past, and it was understood among her friends that they were engaged to be married.

But the course of true love never did run smooth, and there were many difficulties in the way of Ida and Loton. In the first place, the young but ambitious drygoods clerk had a very small salary —hardly enough to keep him in cigars and Sunday clothes—and in the second, Mr. Campbell had denied the young man the privilege of calling upon his daughter.

daughter.

The young people got their heads together and decided to elope. Gude has a brother somewhere in the Seuth, and it is supposed they have gone to make a call on him. "I will be married by the time you receive this," wrote Ida. Mr. Campbell thinks they were married by a trockling elegants.

a Brooklyn clergyman.

The youthful lovers were each about twenty-one years old. Ida is a small, vivacious brunette. Gude is a private in the Twenty-third Regiment. They attended numerous balls and parties to-gether, and the young man appeared in his regimentals as often as opportunity Gude lived with his mother and two Gude lived with his mother and two brothers. Miss Campbell was her grandmother's pet and a probable heiress. It is said her fortune will be seriously affected by her escapade. Robert Campbell, the girl's father, is a plumber, and in his early days was a well known pedestrian. He declares he will never forgive his daughter, but Ida's friends think differently.

The Campbell house was dark last night when a reporter called, and relight when a reporter called, and re-

Salisbury, Conn., Sept. 25.—Carrie Russell, aged twenty, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Russell, proprietor of the Maple Shade House, has eloped with Joseph Jourdee, a hostler, twenty-five years of age. Carrie is very pretty and a great favorite. Jourdee worked around the house and barn to pay his board. A few days ago Lawyer Warner was hastilly summoned to the Maple Shade House by Mrs. Russell.

House by Mrs. Russell.

Lawyer Warner saw an exciting scene when he reached the house. Standing braced in the doorway was Mrs. Russell, barring the way, while in one corner of the room, with a look of half defiance, the room, with a look of half defiance, half entreaty, stood Carrie. In the middle of the room stood Jourdee vehemently declaring that he and Carrie were going to be man and wife, as she had promised him her hand, and ended his declaration by shouting that nothing on heaven or earth could prevent the marriage.

Carrie began to cry, and said that she was over eighteen, and was free to Carrie began to cry, and said that she was over eighteen, and was free to marry whom she pleased, and would do so, too. Mrs. Russell told her daughter that she would never disgrace the family by marrying a hostler, and that she would never, with that intention, pass the door of that room. Carrie was foiled. Suddenly, she discovered that the window was open, and, with a wild the window was open, and, with a wild rush and a mocking laugh, she attempted to throw herself out. Before, she could reach the window her mother could reach the window her mother seized her.

Lawyer Warner prevented Jourdee from interfering. Warner then argued matters, and peace was restored for a time. The next day Jourdee pleaded sickness, and remained in his room nearly all day. During the day Carrier removed all of Jourdee's clothing from the house and sont all his belongings to his mother's home in Chatham, N. Y. About 5 o'clock Jourdee slipped from his room, and, going to a neighboring his room, and. going to a neighboring stable, hired the best horse—one of the fastest in town—and had it charged to

Mrs. Russell. When it was about time for the 6:04 When it was about time for the 6:04 train to arrive Carrie left the house, saying that she was going to post a letter on the train. She started for the station, and on a side road was met by Jourdee with his team. Somebody told Mrs. Russell, who immediately started in pursuit with her own horse. The young couple had the start, and headed direct for Millierton, N. Y.. where they were married. They reached the steps of the minister's house on their way out just in time meet Mrs. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Jourdee didn't wait, but, jumping into their wagon, drove to the station and took the train for Chatham.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Wheat ruled weak during most of the session, but rallied in the afternoon, and closed at a slight advance. At the start there was an effort to stiffen prices largely in the interest of the bears, who wanted to make a strong spot to sell on, but it proved to be very hard work, and, when the props were removed the decline was easy. The news was nearly all beartab. A private cable noted great weakniess in Berint, due, it was said, to the more favorable condition of the German crops, as shown by the government report.
